A: As amjoe noted, 32bit emulation does not work on the 64bit versions of software. The only way is the PLACEHOLDER method you've described. The way it works is: * Copying the game somewhere and then running it with "Sentemul2010x64.exe" instead. * That way it will emulate it's 32bit self.

Ernesto Valverde, a manager who has led Barcelona to four European Cups, one Champions League title and three Spanish league championships during his 14 years in charge of the club, has been sacked. The decision to dismiss Valverde, 70, was taken by the board at a meeting on Monday, a day after Luis Enrique, who succeeded him at the end of last season, was appointed as Barça's coach. Valverde had been in the Camp Nou since 2016, but the board voted to oust him after a difficult domestic season, in which his side finished seventh. He was booed when substituted in the 88th minute of the Clásico on Saturday as Barça suffered a 3-1 loss to Real Madrid. Barça's failure to win any titles during Valverde's tenure of more than six years means that he is the longest-serving manager in the history of the Catalan club, and third on the all-time list, behind Pep Guardiola and Johan Cruyff. Valverde, who celebrated his 70th birthday a week ago, was considered the leading contender to be named coach of the Spanish national team after Luis Enrique was sacked. In addition to coaching Barcelona, Valverde has managed Spain on more than 70 occasions and led Sevilla to the European Cup in 2007. Uli Hoeness, the chairman of Bayern Munich's club board, had frequently talked up the possibility of Valverde taking charge of the German club. "He is the coach I have always wanted," Hoeness said last May. "He is one of the best players of his generation, and a manager who has always been at the top," Hoeness said. "And as a chairman, I would have liked a Spanish coach to take over Bayern Munich, as an ambassador for Spanish football." In Burnett v. Central Transport, 575 So.2d at 186, it was said: "The abuse of discretion standard is the proper standard of review in this case because the trial court is in a better position than an appellate court to handle the many factors which go into a ruling on a motion to transfer venue. If facts exist which justify a change of venue, the trial judge can and should make that determination, and in doing so, will be in a better position than the appellate court to weigh the evidence on each factor listed in § 6-3-21.1(b)." (Emphasis supplied.) The error in this case was the assertion that the seven factors from § 6-3-21.1(b) either were present or not present. The defense properly assigned no error to the sufficiency of the evidence. That is not the question. The question is the weight and credibility of the evidence. It is, of course, the prerogative of the trial judge to determine weight and credibility. Regarding the seven factors listed in § 6-3-21.1(b), two are claimed to be present: 1. That the convenience of witnesses for the plaintiff will be promoted by the change of venue. The defendant has produced no list of witnesses. The sufficiency of the evidence to establish the named witnesses' convenience is a question for the trial court. 2. That because of the location of the alleged injury and the residence of the plaintiff and defendant, the chosen forum is the most convenient for the parties and witnesses. The defendant asserts that the factor is not present because neither she nor her witnesses live in Bland County. The plaintiff and his witnesses are residents of and come to Bland County for medical treatment. This is not a case where ba244e880a
